BACKGROUND OF THE PROJECT

Cotton is support for the economy of Pakistan and commitment of Punjab is more than 75% of its aggregate generation in Pakistan. In any case, cotton trim territory and creation is declining because of development of zone under contending crops, biotic and abiotic elements and low quality of seeds. This diminishment in zone represents a noteworthy danger to our economy and work as 1200 ginning industrial facilities, 400 material factories, 200 oil plants are depending on cotton edit other than immense number of homestead laborers getting compensation from dibbling, showering, hoeing and picking and so on. The customary range of this yield in Punjab was around 6 million sections of land. Change in climate conditions, better seed advances of the contending products and expanding of biotic and abiotic dangers are the fundamental driver of decrease in territory of cotton in Punjab. Non-accessibility of better quality cotton seed to the agriculturist is yet the significant explanation behind lessening in cotton range and creation in Punjab which has now dropped to 4.388 million sections of land.
